Insights from Outside May 2019

The numbers are in: City Nature Challenge 2019 was a Huge Success!

Two weekends ago Wellesley residents joined 159 cities across the globe for City Nature Challenge 2019. A staggering 32,690 participants on six continents made 911,465 nature observations, identifying 31,730 species. Wellesley participants visited Centennial Reservation, the North 40, Longfellow Pond and the Town Forest, Boulder Brook Reservation, Guernsey Sanctuary, their own backyards, and other areas around town to document Wellesley's natural biodiversity.

Wellesley had 43 observers participate who made 1309 observations of 336 Species. The most popular area in town for participation was the North 40 with over 400 observations of 134 species made by 21 observers. Check out all of Wellesley's impressive stats here, which contributed to the Boston areas outstanding global statistics placing 14th with 20,340 observations, 26th with 1568 species identified and 9th with 1,109 observers.

"It's (Still) Vital Not to Idle"

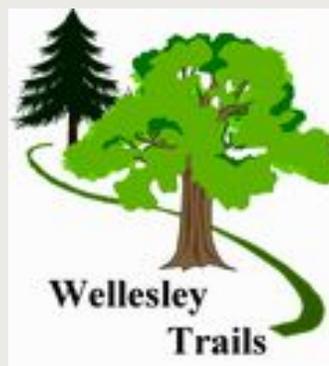

Over 30 Wellesley boards, departments, and community groups are participating in the "It's Vital Not to Idle" campaign, inspired by Girl Scout Troop 73505. The Scouts have been out visiting school car-lines and the RDF to spread the message about the harmful effects of idling. Please read this letter from the NRC and Board of Health about the health risks of idling, especially for children. Help spread the word: contact the NRC if your organization would like to use promotional materials such as sandwich boards, signs and flyers.

If you missed this year's chance at participating in this global citizen science project be sure to join us next April for CNC 2020. Many thanks to the volunteers who worked to make this happen!

Be Part of Wellesley's Spring Cleaning!

Talking Conservation

Did you know, the top two conservation steps for mitigating climate change are reforestation, and avoiding converting forests to development? The Wellesley Conservation Council and the NRC would like to thank Spencer Meyer of the Highstead Foundation and Harvard Forest for leading a discussion making the case for conservation's "Return on Investment" in the areas of health care,

A huge thanks to Vaani Kapoor, for organizing a plastic pick-up day along Route 9 with her friends, pictured above, and to volunteers from NaviHealth at the Charles River Clean Up, below. The groups did an incredible job. If you would like to lead or join a similar effort, contact us and we can help!

High School Students: Contact the Key Club for volunteer opportunities.

clean water and air, property values, and job creation. This informative presentation was backed up with loads of data. If you missed the presentation, watch it here!

Business Owners: Help clean up Route 9 and get credit for your efforts by "Adopting a Highway." Learn more about the State's program here, and contact the NRC to partner with us.

Softball Fields of Dreams

Big improvements to the Lee and Hunnewell softball fields are on the way! This million dollar project will be funded by the Community Preservation Act and the Town's capital budget, as well as $250,000 to be raised in private donations.

If you are interested in contributing time or a tax-deductible donation to help the girls' softball team and others play ball for years to come, please contact Jill Creevy at jillcreevy@comcast.net

Thirty-six Years, and Counting...

For the 36th year, Wellesley was once again named a Tree City USA by the Arbor Day Foundation in honor of its commitment to effective municipal urban forest management.

Trees provide multiple benefits to the community when properly planted and maintained. They help to improve the visual appeal of a neighborhood, increase property values, reduce home cooling costs, protect water, remove air pollutants and provide wildlife habitat, among many other benefits.

Get your free tree now, through the Town's Tree Planting program. Read more about this year's options, and help preserve and grow our town's important tree canopy by calling the NRC at 781-431-1019, ext. 2294.

Love Birds?

Plant Native Plants this Spring

Birds like this Goldfinch depend on insects, and insects depend on native plant species. Baby birds cannot eat hard seeds from bird feeders - they need soft, protein-rich caterpillars to survive, and lots of them. Numerous studies have shown our insect and bird populations to be in precipitous decline. Please consider your yard as habitat and plant native this year. Use the Native Plant Trust's "Go Botany" tool to identify plants native to New England. Watch Dr. Doug Tallamy in Wellesley explain it all in this informative and entertaining talk.
